

Dear Diane,

Hello and how are you and the family? It's been so long since I've written, I don't quite know where to start. Hope all is well there. Bruce is doing well, still at Fords, and looking forward to retirement. I believe he has only two more years left. Lisa has moved to Grayling, is continuing her education there, lives on a hill only the brave dare to drive up, has three dogs, two cats, and is grounded from the animal shelter. We were up there for Thanksgiving and had a great time. Jason is assistant manager at Bill Knapps, shirt, tie and briefcase. Reminds me an awful lot of your father sometimes with his little habits. As he never knew him I'm assuming they are genetic traits. I am doing well. Working for a jewelry company now and very busy this time of year. Sue and Jon are well. Don't see very much of them. Sue did have surgery for a hernia this year. Mary Johnson is divorced. She was very devastated by it, but seems to be doing better now. This summer I brought my cousin's son over from Slovakia and we all enjoyed his trip and doing the tourist thing. Before I forget our area code has changed to 734.

I have come to the conclusion that I will never be done with this genealogy. It will be a lifetime commitment. Therefore I am sending you what I have so far. I hope you can make sense of it and enjoy it. I have so many papers, wills, military records, etc. So I'm just sending you the pedigree and a summary of direct descendants, and a few interesting papers. Your mother's line goes back very far here in the U.S. I almost had a connection to the Mayflower. I'm still working on that. As you can see with the proper verification you are able to join the Daughters of the American Revolution and David the Sons of the American Revolution. There is an awful lot written in the history books of Thomas Hooker. And a lot in Michigan history of Abel Warren. If you have any questions or want more information just let me know. If it's not of interest to you, please save it for David. I'm a little crazy with this stuff and drive Bruce nuts with it. If there is any info you would like to contribute on yourself let me know - by the way are you Diana or Diane?

Well I am going to run for now. Tell Frank and David Hello. Any plans to visit Mich in the near future? It hasn't snowed here yet - must be global warming. Please take care! Have a wonderful Holiday!

P.S. Thank you so much for the Gift. Bruce keeps hiding it from me, but this nose can smell chocolate!!!

OF THE CITY IN HIS HONOR.

ABEL WARREN

comb County, Mich., in 1858, and purchased forty-seven acres on Section 7, which he afterward sold and purchased 195 acres of first-class land, where he now resides; his farm is nearly all under a good state of cultivation, with fine buildings. He was married, November 1, 1842, to Elizabeth Fisher, a native of Bavaria, born May 14, 1820; they have had twelve children, of whom nine are living; their record is as follows: Mary E., born August 15, 1844, married Charles Andrews, November 1, 1866; George, January 8, 1846, married Caroline George January 27, 1867; John W., January 7, 1847; Fanny C., June 10, 1848, married Perry Everett, October 11, 1868; Charles E., April 23, 1850, married Mary Walwin; Henry J., December 25, 1851, married Myrtie Smith; Abraham F., August 5, 1853; William F., February 22, 1855, married Della Dickens; Lucius E., August 30, 1856, married Matilda Burd; Perry R., January 11, 1859, died September 15, 1863; Elmer P., March 6, 1861, died November 20, 1861; Lydia Q., November 13, 1862, died October 8, 1863. Mr. S. is a Republican in political views, and has been elected School Assessor seven years; he is highly esteemed by his townsmen as an honorable and upright man and citizen.

WILLIARD A. WALES, aged sixty-two years, was born in Covington, Genesee Co., N. Y., December 7, 1819; son of Solomon and Urania Wales, natives of Vermont. W. A. Wales married Amy Ann Chapman, April 10, 1843, daughter of John and Jane Chapman, born August 21, 1822, in the township of Livonia, Livingston County, N. Y. The children of this marriage were born as follows: William Wert, May 24, 1845; Henry Lee, July 13, 1849; Amos Emmet, June 3, 1852, died August 22, 1863; Earl Wright, December 13, 1853; Mary, September 1, 1856; Ellie May, November 29, 1864, died January 8, 1880. Mr. Wales removed to Shelby, Macomb County, in May, 1823, with his parents, where he has resided since that time; was educated at the common schools and has pursued the occupation of a farmer to the present date; has held the office of Supervisor for ten years; was elected a member of the Executive Committee of the State Grange for two years; wrote and circulated the first call for a Republican convention in the county, in 1854. Mr. W. recollects seeing the Chief Wadson when a boy, at which time Romeo was called the Indian Village, and bears and wolves were numerous; at that time, his mother spun and wove linen and flannel to clothe the family.

ABEL WARREN, deceased, was born in Hampton, Washington County, State of New York, August 3, 1789, where he grew to manhood; enlisted and served in the war of 1812; held the office of Sergeant; was seriously wounded and taken prisoner at the battle of Queenstown Heights; was paroled and returned to his home, and was married to Sarah Hooker, of Poultney, Vt., January 16, 1814, and, in 1816, moved to Covington, Genesee County, in his native State; in 1820, he came to Michigan and purchased eighty acres of land, near Pontiac, but subsequently sold it, and, in 1824, he moved with his family to Michigan and purchased an eighty-acre lot on Section 4, Shelby, Macomb County, where he lived and died; he was converted in Covington February 28, 1817, and joined the M. E. Church; held for a time the office of Class-leader, and subsequently, was licensed to exhort, which relation he held when he moved to Michigan; was licensed to preach at a quarterly meeting held in Detroit, in June, 1825; in 1830, he was ordained Deacon at a conference, held in Lancaster, Ohio, and subsequently, was ordained Elder; he was the first man licensed in the Territory of Michigan, and no doubt preached at more funerals and married more couples than any other one man in the county of Macomb, as when well, he was always ready at a moment's call for either, frequently leaving the hayfield and going ten or fifteen miles to attend a funeral, and, as horses in those days were very scarce, not unfrequently making the journey on foot. As a pioneer local preacher, he was abundant in labors, traveling on foot at times twenty-four miles on the Sabbath and preaching three times, and that after a hard week's work on the farm, and preaching as regularly as any stationed preacher, and spending most of the winters in special revival work, in Macomb, St. Clair and Oakland Counties, in which hundreds were converted, thus helping to lay the basis on which rests the magnificent, moral and social superstructure of this beautiful region of country. And in reference to him, the language of the wise man seems appropriate—"The memory of the just is blessed: for he is enshrined in the hearts of the people, and his memory will be cherished" while our present civilization lasts. With reference to his character as a man and minister, I quote from his biographer: His chief endowment was strong common sense; he had a quick perception and was a remarkably good judge of human nature, and could address men in public or private so as to reach their better natures, without arousing their prejudices; his education was very limited, but his language was always chaste and quite correct, and, his manner very impressive; an Episcopal clergyman, after hearing him, said: "He has neither education nor eloquence, but something far better—the power to convince and move men." He was genial and sympathetic, could weep with those that wept, or rejoice and smile with the cheerful and happy, and thus was a welcome guest, either at the wedding festival, at the sick-bed or funeral obsequies. He had nine children, four sons and five daughters; one son died in infancy, the rest living to maturity; two of the sons are in the ministry, and the other holds important official positions in the church, and one daughter is the wife of a prominent minister of the Michigan Conference. Elder Warren died September 5, 1862, in the seventy-fourth year of his age; his wife survived him eleven years, and died December 6, 1873. Four only of the children are now living, the rest having passed with the parents to the home beyond. Many incidents, quite novel and of interest, might be given of Elder Warren's early history in the county and Territory, but a few must suffice. At the conference held in the court house at Pontiac, twenty-two years ago, in the love feast, two or three of the old ministers claimed to have been the first there, but, after giving their dates, he said he was ahead of all of them; that, in 1820, stopping in town for the night, he came out into the brush, just about where the court house stood, for secret prayer, and the wolves gathered around and commenced to howl, and he held a prayer-meeting with them. One Sabbath evening, while passing through the woods over an Indian trail, he saw just ahead of him a huge bear. The animal seemed inclined to dispute the right of way; without apparent fear, the traveler picked up a stick, saying, "If you be good, I will, but otherwise we will try titles." The bear stepped aside and the Elder pushed forward on his journey.

HARMON A. WELLS, P. O. Rochester, farmer, Section 7, was born April 19, 1827, in Steuben County, N. Y.; is the son of Samuel D. and Lydia (Parmenter) Wells; his father was born March 24, 1789, in Saratoga County, N. Y., and died August 12, 1833; he was of Welsh extraction and was a soldier of the war of 1812. Mr. Wells' mother was born August 2, 1792, at Oakham, Mass., and died September 22, 1855; her lineage was English. The senior Wells came to this country in August, 1829, and located on 240 acres of land on Sections 6 and 7, where he resided until his death. Mr. W. of this sketch purchased 140 acres of the old homestead, which he has placed under the best state of cultivation, and which is supplied with good dwellings and convenient accessory buildings. Mr. Wells married Roxelana Cannon, a native of Day, Saratoga Co., N. Y., born May 8, 1832. Seven children have been born to them, as follows: Mary A. Wells, born January 28, 1859; Frank D., September 19, 1861; Alice M., September 15, 1863; George S., December 26, 1866; Byron S., May 23, 1869; Emma M., May 28, 1872; Lydia M., January 9, 1876; Mary A. Wells died February 11, 1862. Mr. Wells is a Republican in politics, and has held the position of Road Commissioner four terms. Mr. and Mrs. Wells hold to the principles of the Universalist Church.

Who's The Real Warren Namesake?

By MITCH KEHETIAN
Macomb Daily
City Editor

The Warren City Hall sports an impressive portrait of Revolutionary War hero General Joseph Warren; and on November 13, 1962, that city's council passed a resolution stating that Warren is officially named in honor of General Warren. But a quiet controversy continues, and an appropriate question might be: "Will the real Warren namesake please stand up."

Roots of the problem go back to March 22, 1839, when the residents of then Aba Township gave their community a new name — Warren Township — without citing a single word in the township's official minutes to explain the change.

And so, for years people have been conjecturing whether the area was actually named after Gen. Warren, who never even saw Michigan soil, or after Rev. Abel Warren, long-time faithful servant of the community's religious needs.

REV. WARREN'S cracked and toppled gravestone lies in an old unkempt cemetery at Mound and 26 Mile in Washington Township. It is dated September 5, 1862 and bears the inscription:

"I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith."

As to the validity of the city's name link with the Revolutionary War Patriot — a victim of the battle of Bunker Hill — Warren's amateur historian, Gerald Neil, has many strong points to support his theory that Warren, Michigan was named to perpetuate the identity of General Warren:

It was common practice back in the earlier 1800's for communities to name themselves after Revolutionary War heroes — and General Warren undoubtedly ranked among such brave men.

BEFORE HIS tragic death at Bunker Hill, General Warren helped form the famed "Minute Men" to defend Lexington and Concord, and he successfully led the fight against the British by forcing the Union Jack troops to retreat back to Boston.

Further, it was General Warren who dispatched Paul Revere to alert the people that "the British are coming."

If Neil's theory is actually fact, the city of Warren has every reason to be proud of having been named after the brave and brilliant Joseph Warren, a graduate of Harvard at the age of 18 and martyr to the American cause at only 34.

But another amateur historian of Warren's past, Harold Stillwell, has raised some doubts about the naming of Warren after the hero of

GENERAL WARREN

Bunker Hill.

THE MAIN point of contention comes in the fact that the name switch from Aba to Warren Township came 64 years after the death of General Warren, but at the very time that Rev. Warren lived, preached and farmed in these parts.

In his youth, Abel Warren served in the War of 1812 as an infantry sergeant, and was severely wounded and taken prisoner by the British at Queenstown Heights. After marrying a young woman named Sarah Hooker, the wounded former soldier moved to Michigan.

According to the Michigan Military Records, Rev. Warren was the first man licensed to preach in the then territory of Michigan, and was identified as a "Soldier of the Cross."

CONTINUING. another manual says that Abel Warren "... no doubt ... preached at more funerals and married more couples than any other man in the county of Macomb ..."

He had nine children and, somewhere in this area, descendants of Abel Warren probably still live.

It was said of this preacher:

"He has neither education nor eloquence, but something far better — the power to convince and move men."

He would undoubtedly have been known by the Aba Township supervisors of 1837 through 1841, but the main important question remains unanswered:

DID ABEL Warren have the power to convince and move the men of Aba Township to name their town in his honor?

The mystery is likely to go unsolved for years to come. But, then again, one day some young man or woman might visit the Warren City Hall and proclaim: "I'm a descendant of Abel Warren, and I have some information that merits your consideration."

In the meantime, however, the city of Warren is officially linked to the Bunker Hill hero whose portrait remains on display at city hall.

Warren Is 70th Largest

Warren is not only Macomb County's largest city, it is the 70th in population among American municipalities.

Growing from 89,000 residents in 1960, Warren hit the 179,000 population mark in the 1970 census. It ranks fourth in Michigan behind Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint.

The listing of the top five cities in America did not change with the new census although there were slight changes in the population figure of each.

NEW YORK CITY remained the nation's largest city. The 1970 census put New York's population at 7,895,000 residents. This was as big as the next three together.

Chicago, that "merry old town," remained America's second city, with 3,369,000 persons calling it home.

Third is Los Angeles with 2,816,000 residents, and fourth is Philadelphia with a 1,950,000 population. Detroit is fifth with 1,512,000 residents.

HOUSTON, Texas, is now the sixth largest city of the United States, boasting a 1,232,000 population.

Seventh is Baltimore, Maryland, with 905,000 residents. Dallas, Texas, is eighth with 844,000.
